

Hall Payne makes two senior appointments in Industrial Relations and Employment Law

Date: Monday July 11, 2016

Hall Payne Lawyers is thrilled to announce two senior appointments within the firm, as award winning Juliana Virine and specialist Joseph Kennedy get promoted to Senior Associate.

Having been with Hall Payne for four years, Juliana Virine has been promoted to Senior Associate on the back of an exceptional start to the year. Having been named as one of the rising stars of Employment law in Australia by the prestigious Doyle's guide, Juliana is a key member of our highly regarded Brisbane Employment Law and Industrial Relations team.

Coming to Hall Payne Lawyers with experience working in two of Queensland's largest unions, and having also worked as Women's Officer and Industrial Officer for the Queensland Council of Unions, Juliana has repeatedly demonstrated why she is recognised as a rising star in Employment law.

Joseph Kennedy joins Juliana as one of the firm's new Senior Associates. Joe has been with Hall Payne Lawyers for 18 months, and has quickly established himself as an essential member of our Industrial Relations team. As part of a growing practice in Sydney, Joe has considerable experience in advising a wide range of unions and employees in Employment and Industrial Law. Joe also holds specialist accreditation from the NSW Law Society in Employment and Industrial Law.

Both Juliana and Joe combine their significant expertise in Employment Law and Industrial Relations with a passion for access to justice. Both volunteer their time at community legal centres in Brisbane and Sydney respectively, and having developed their practices with a strong commitment to social justice and workers' rights. We're delighted to see them assume senior positions within the firm as both role models and exceptional lawyers within our growing team.
